DETAILED ACTION

CLAIM RENUMBERING:

The numbering of claims is not in accordance with 37 CFR 1.126 which requires the original numbering of the claims to be preserved throughout the prosecution. When claims are canceled, the remaining claims must not be renumbered. When new claims are presented, they must be numbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claims previously presented (whether entered or not).

Misnumbered claims 53-91 have been renumbered as 52-90, respectively. Corresponding claim dependencies within dependent claims have been renumbered corresponding to the above renumbering of the claims. It is noted that the originally filed claims contained a misnumbering in that there was no claim 48 originally submitted. Therefore prior to the cancellation of claims 2-52, claims 49-52 had been renumbered as 48-51. The cancellation of claims 2-52, filed 10/13/01, thus was reasonably interpreted as cancellation of claims 2-51 as renumbered. The preliminary amendment, filed as Amendment A, on 10/13/01, thus has been renumbered as noted above along with the cancellation of claim 1. Election/Restrictions

THE FOLLOWING THREE SPECIE ELECTIONS ARE HEREBY REQUIRED:

FIRST SPECIE ELECTION REQUIREMENT:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie A: Assay device and method practice wherein the computer software on the assay disk includes tracking information for tracking of an incident laser

Specie B: Assay device and method practice wherein the computer software on the assay disk includes assay interpretive algorithms

Specie C: Assay device and method practice wherein the computer software on the assay disk includes standard control values

Specie D: Assay device and method practice wherein the computer software on the assay disk includes self-diagnostics

Specie E: Assay device and method practice wherein the computer software on the assay disk is generic as not being specified as in Species A – D.

The above species are distinct due to being separate and different software functions and thus require a separate search thus documenting the undue search burden if they are searched together.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 52, 53, 56-69, and 73-87 are generic to the above species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

SECOND SPECIE ELECTION REQUIREMENT:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie F: Assay device and method practice without a cleavable signal element

Specie G: Assay device and method practice involving cleavable signal element(s).

Signal elements being cleavable, or not, are distinct species as they require different evaluations and search regarding both cleavage conditions as well as assay detection element(s) when cleavage frees such signal elements from a disk contained assay element thus documenting the undue search burden if these species are searched together.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 52-55, 65-81, and 84-90 are generic to the above listed species

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

THIRD SPECIE ELECTION REQUIREMENT:

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Specie H: Assay device and method practice without a metal microsphere signal responsive element therein.

Specie I: Assay device and method practice with a metal microsphere signal responsive element therein.

The usage of metal microsphere(s) as a signal responsive element is a distinct and different element for signaling from a generic non-metal microsphere signal element due to specifics of detection thereof, such as microscopy detection vs. radioactive or fluorescent detection for other signal element types, that are required thus documenting the distinct subject matter difference between these species and the undue search burden if they were searched together.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 52-57 and 62-90 are generic to the above species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
